«Son, we need to talk. What do you really do for living? Aren't you back to that old college thing? I haven't seen you carving a wooden spoon, making a chair, collecting garbage or performing any other act that adds value to society»

«Look dad, I build integrated, long-lasting relationships between brands and consumers converting them into brand advocates thus allocating brands into soc...»

«Why won't you just say «I don't know...» I'd actually prefer that to a dumb answer.»
